

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A implement retaining device for inhibit writing implements from rolling freely across a support surface. The implement retaining device includes a body member being designed for being positioned on a support surface whereby the body member is designed for having a portion of the body member slid under an 10 object positioned on the support surface. The body member is designed for receiving the writing implements whereby the body member is for inhibiting the writing implements from rolling across the support surface.